Students are able to see courses that transfer to ASU from other institutions. You can start using the Course Equivalency Search to figure out which coursework could transfer from your current institution to ASU. Students will be informed exactly which credits will transfer to ASU when they are admitted and meet with their academic advisor.

If your school is not listed in our online resources, you may still be eligible for transfer credits. However, you will need to complete the application process before ASU is able to determine how your credits will transfer.
