Campus Highlights

Students from all disciplines can bring their ideas for new products or services into reality at one of the Student Innovation Idea Labs. The iLabs offer specialized programming about design, fabrication, innovation and entrepreneurship in three spaces: the Idea Lab, the Maker Studio in the University Library, and Innovation Orchard at Ganesha High School.

The W.K. Kellogg Arabian Horse Center is home to more than 100 horses with most tracing their lineage to the herd started by W.K. Kellogg in 1925. Open to the public on weekdays, the center offers public horse shows.

The Lyle Center for Regenerative Studies is focused on advancing sustainability through interdisciplinary approaches to education, research and community outreach. The 16-acre facility attracts students and faculty from agriculture, architecture, biology, engineering, geography, landscape architecture, and urban and regional planning.

The Restaurant at Kellogg Ranch is an award-winning, upscale-dining restaurant managed and operated by students in The Collins College of Hospitality Management. The RKR exemplifies collaborative learning and serves as a prestigious training ground for hospitality professionals.

The Farm Store sells campus-grown produce and California agricultural products, as well as nursery plants, snacks and gift items.
